Resident wants second entrance to Mackayville

by Russ Duhaime

The county's refusal to allow an extension of Hunter street to run through Hyland Crest property has raised concern from at least one Mackayville resident.

Mike Maher, who lives in the Minden subdivision wrote council last week expressing his concerns at the lack of a second entrance to the area, which houses the elementary school and Hyland Crest.

A proposal to create a second entrance was recently made by Minden Council to the Hyland Crest board of management. The board, however, rejected the idea for the time being because the extension of Hunter Street could potentially hinder future expansions to the home.

Responding to a news report of this decision, Maher said he has been concerned for a number of years about the increased traffic on Mackay Drive, since it is the only access to the subdivision. When the subdivision was planned, it is doubtful that a school and senior citizens home were taken into consideration for the traffic patterns. These two facilities draw a flow of traffic that would not otherwise be present in the subdivision.

Responding to the letter, Reeve Bern Berry said he hopes Maher is able to persuade people that a second entrance is necessary. "I hope he is successful because we should have one (a second entrance)".

In response to Maher's concerns about the increasing bus traffic to and from Archie Stouffer Elementary School, council will be advising him of the school board's plans to alter its routes away from Mackayville. The school board hopes to create a new entrance to the school through the back of its property from Flemming Road. Bus traffic would then be routed along Bobcaygeon Road, up Flemming Street and to the school via the new entrance.

Although this would solve the bussing problem, Maher notes other concerns in his letter. Hyland Crest traffic includes staff, visitors and supply vehicles. Traffic to the school includes teachers' vehicles, parents of school children and supply vehicles. In the summer there are numerous recreational programs at the school which bring traffic to the area.

"On evenings when there is a function at the school it is absolutely impossible to get an emergency vehicle up to the school!" Maher wrote. "All this traffic is forced up through the small funnel at the junction of Mackay Drive and Bobcaygeon Road! The possibility of an accident blocking this funnel for an extended period was brought to the fore last winter when an accident involving a school bus and a citizen took place blocking Mackay Drive. No fire, ambulance or police vehicle would have been able to reach the school or Hyland Crest."

Maher, who is a former police officer, believes that civil action against the municipality and the Hyland Crest board is possible in the event of an accident.

Maher, who is also a former Minden councillor, hopes council will not "throw in the towel". If the Hyland Crest board cannot be convinced of the need for this access, an alternative is possible, he said. The matter had been discussed during Maher's term on council and he notes there were discussions with another property owner to create another access. "I understand this particular property was not ideal, but it shows that an alternative exists, just as the alternative of land expropriation by the municipality exists and is a viable alternative."

If something is not done to solve this problem, Maher says he will explore the option of creating an association or residents and concerned citizens to lobby through their MPP or the press for a solution.

What's so scary about Grade 1?

Desks. Going to school all day every day. Reading. All the responsibility that comes with being in a higher grade. That's what some of the student in Mrs. Mark-O'Sullivan's new class were fearing as they headed off to attend Grade One classes at Archie Stouffer Elementary School last Tuesday.

Once they arrived, though, the kids found there's nothing to fear. On Wednesday, Mrs. Tomlinson took the students outdoors to share with them a story about another little boy and his worries on the first day of school. Like other ASES students, this little boy found school can be a lot of fun.

Three vye for Reform candidacy

by Andy Holloway

The race may be a long way off, but the Reform Party will be first out of the starting blocks in Victoria-Haliburton.

Three candidates have announced they will battle it out for the fledgling party's first nomination September 28. The party is not wasting any time in anticipation of a spring '93 vote.

One of the hopefuls, Barry Devolin, is from Haliburton. The others are Paul Pagnuelo of Pontypool and Victor Norman of Cavan. The three are currently travelling throughout the riding participating in nine all-candidate forums. These meetings are aimed at the 1000 voting members of the party, but the general public is invited to attend as well.

Devolin helped found and was the first president of the party's riding association nearly two years ago. Some have suggested that Devolin's experience within the riding from the first day, might give him a leading edge over his opponents. He disagrees.

Devolin says the relative newness of the party and its sudden rise in popularity in Ontario means that new members are still being attracted to the movement. As a result there are many members today who weren't there two years ago.

"I would never hold it against anyone because they weren't there from day one," says Devolin.

Devolin says, if the kind of experience he has is important to a member, then he would obviously have a better chance of getting that vote. However, he notes there are two other important factors emerging from the campaign: he is the youngest of the three and he is also the only one to work in the riding.

As a real estate agent, Devolin would be able to devote more time in a federal election because there are not set hours that he has to work.

One other advantage Devolin claims, is a strong background

Pull together, committee is told

Health care must replace rivalries as main focus

The planning and development committee is being asked to set rivalries aside and focus attention on the task at hand - long term health care.

"The committee seems fragmented" study co-ordinator Kate Reid said at the close of a meeting last Tuesday, "and we are to some extent." However, she pointed out that some difficult milestones have been reached. She said the committee has to decide if it is willing to pull together and support the decisions it makes as a whole.

The committee recently decided to "fast track" the 15-bed expansion of the Haliburton Hospital, a decision that has rekindled the long-standing Minden-versus-Haliburton rivalry. In response, the Minden Rotary Club asked that its $12,500 donation made six years ago to the building be put in a separate fund for use in Minden.

For the most part, Tuesday's meeting was a low-key event, attended by only one member of the public. The committee listened to a presentation from Donna Pacey from Haliburton County Home Support Services and another from Irwin Asbell, representing Minden's doctors. There were no controversial issues on the agenda, but an underlying bitterness was evident throughout much of the meeting.

Finally, committee member Michael Collins brought it to the fore, commenting on recent news coverage, letters and editorials.

"It's not what's in the papers but what's behind what's in the papers," said Collins "I can't believe the Minden Rotary Club could be so childish as to withdraw the $12,000." If committee members have a problem, they should air it at the meetings, he said, not in the papers.

Collins said the "non-sense" must stop because it is all leaking back to the Minister of Health, who may get fed up with it all. Committee members have to support decisions that have been made, he said. "Every one of us here has to support the decisions. We can't go out afterward and mud disturb," he said.

Don Campbell, however, said it is unrealistic to assume that committee members will not express their opinions. "We can't just clam up when we're asked by people on the street," he argued.

Collins then suggested that the place for argument is at the committee table before a vote. Once a decision has been made by the committee, it should be supported by all committee members. He said members should avoid saying anything destructive.

The planning and development committee is now heading into a feasibility study to determine how best to use the available funds. The study is broken into two phases, the first of which is to press ahead with the expansion of the Haliburton Hospital. This segment of the study is to be completed by December 4.

The second phase will determine what is the best use for the remainder of the funding. This phase is to be completed by January 29.

Council chops down tree by-law proposal

Minden residents may continue to cut trees on their own properties unhindered by municipal regulations.

Minden Council decided Thursday that it is unwilling to support the concept of new legislation that would give responsibility for tree cutting control to municipalities.

Council was split on this issue, with two members seeing merit to the idea and two seeing potential problems. A tie vote on the resolution resulted in it being defeated.

Councillor Jean Anthon brought the matter to the floor, explaining that the Association of Municipalities of Ontario (AMO) is frustrated with the existing Trees Act and would like municipalities to have the authority to create their own tree-cutting by-laws. AMO is seeking endorsement of this proposal from all municipalities in the hope that it can convince the province to grant this power to municipalities.

Anthon also noted that endorsement of the resolution would not mean that Minden wants a by-law of its own, but that council wants municipalities to have the right to do so if they wish.

Councillor Lewis Stevens said he is not in favour of the idea. "I don't think municipalities should have the authority to tell people what they can do on their own private property.

Reeve Bern Berry, who also opposed the resolution, said he does not believe Minden has the sophisticated structures necessary for increased decision-making authority. Berry said the Ministry of Natural Resources is a large well-managed body and it is unable to do a proper job of it. He said it is unlikely that municipalities could do better.

Anthon said she is not suggesting that the municipality adopt a by-law, but said those municipalities with sufficient infrastructures deserve the right to decide for themselves if a by-law is warranted.

She said she has seen entire lakefront lots cleared of trees, which proves there is a need for increased control in this area. On the other hand, Anthon said there is an apparent need for improved control.

Put to a vote, the resolution was defeated with Berry and Lewis in opposition. Councillors Anthon and Grant Ploord voted in favour of the resolution.

Corn, anyone?

Whether its on stage or in the pot, corn is a key ingredient in the recipe for a good time. Last wednesday about 40 Minden area kids came out to Peter Lindsay's home for a corn roast and a bit of theatrics to kick off the new school year and another season with the Minden Bible Church. With help from Beth Fast; the kids acted out a short play before diving into the corn, served up by Pete Lindsay. Taylor Goodman was one of the many youths to bite into the steaming hot cobs.

Four concerts for price of three Children's concerts a 'sweet deal'

Parents often exhaust their imaginations and pocketbooks trying to keep their children entertained. To alleviate this impossible task, the organizers of the Haliburton County Children's Concert Series with the support of the Ontario Arts Council is adding a fourth concert to its 1992-93 season.

The sweetest part of the deal is that the four-concert series, once again showcasing the highest calibre of Canadian children's entertainers, is being offered at the same low price as last year's series subscriptions. For $40 you and your family can attend all four concerts.

Rick Scott will ignite this year's line up on Sunday October 25 at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. This modern-day jester combines music, theatre and humour in an up-tempo participatory setting for all ages.

in political science. He has obtained both a Bachelor and a Master's university degree in political science. He says this allows him to know and understand the "lingo" of everyday politics that perhaps balances the political experience his opponents have. Devolin also managed a provincial Progressive Conservative campaign in 1987.

Being from Haliburton could be perceived as a disadvantage, considering the bulk of the riding's population lives in Victoria County, but Devolin points out that MP Bill Scott is from Kilmount and MPP Dennis Drainville lives in Gooderham.

"Intuitively, you would think that being from Lindsay would give you a great advantage, but if you look at the results it doesn't really bear itself out.

Devolin also points out his opponents are from smaller centres on the fringe of the riding. Victor Norman may have a more difficult time because he from Cavan Township which is located in Peterborough County.

Norman agrees, "I would have an easier time in Peterborough because I'm already established there, but the same abilities I used in Peterborough can be used in Victoria-Haliburton. It's just a matter of getting around and letting the people see what I have to offer," says Norman.

What he has to offer is political experience. He has nine years in municipal politics, serving as Reeve of Cavan Township and as Warden for Peterborough County during that time, as well as 25 years working as a volunteer in federal and provincial politics.

"I think the experience that I've had over the years in politics holds me in good stead," says Norman, who adds one of his traits is that he is "a man of few words, but I'm a man of action."

He was employed as a teacher in Scarborough. Norman says he has a wide educational background and is a specialist in the teaching of handicapped children. He also boasts of having worked a number of part-time jobs, mainly in the trades industry.

Norman says he became attracted to the Reform Party after a trip to see his brother in Lethbridge, Alberta (the provincial stronghold of the party), but did not become a member of the party until six months ago.

"I just got frustrated with the whole process in Ottawa and finally I just decided to run for the Reform Party. I like what they had to say and the style of government they are proposing."

Previously, Norman had supported the Progressive Conservative Party. He was a vice-president of the Peterborough PC Association, but switched to the Reform Party because he says he believes the Brian Mulroney government has lost touch with the people on important matters. The debate over the recent constitutional deal is one such issue.

"As far as I'm concerned, a vote for the yes side on this constitution won't end the wrangling. It's just going to con-

Knowing where to draw the line

Rivalry. In certain situations, it's a positive influence which brings out the best in us. In other situations, though, it's a destructive force, capable only of causing damage. The trick is in knowing where to draw the line.

The villages of Minden and Haliburton have been locked in a bitter rivalry for decades, sometimes forcing each other to excel and sometimes smothering mutual interests.

Recent examples of the latter are numerous. A few years back, the Chamber of Commerce came close to crumbling over a decision that made Haliburton the host village for the Highland Games. Two years ago County Council was a forum for conflict when it decided to move its headquarters out of Minden. The school board, it seems, falls into the trap every time a suggestion is made to spend money in either of the communities. And in recent weeks the Planning and Development Committee for Long Term Health Care found its members divided along village lines in a bitter debate over the planned expansion of the Haliburton Hospital.

The line must be drawn outside the doorway to any institution that professes to represent the county as a whole. County Council, school board, chamber of commerce and the planning and development committee are examples of the kinds of institutions where the Minden/Haliburton rivalry is a destructive force.

Before engaging in debate or casting a vote, members of these assemblies should first remind themselves that they are there to represent the county. Home-town loyalties must take a back seat to what is best for the county. If the members are unable to do this, they would better serve their communities by committing their efforts to village-based groups.

Trashy tell-all books up to no good

There's a new book out about one of my comedy heroes. It's called The Great One: The Life and Legend of Jackie Gleason. It's written by a Time magazine critic with the near-monarchical name of William A. Henry III.

I won't be reading it.

I won't be reading it because I know too much of what's between the covers already. Thanks to book reviews in the Globe and Mail and various news magazines I'm already aware that Mister Henry's book reveals that Jackie Gleason was:

A drunk.

A bully.

And a slob.

According to the book, even Gleason's grasp of comedy was limited. It claims he was a lousy stand-up comic

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black and a frequently awful actor.

The only thing he was good at was 'sketch' comedy — such as Ralph Kramden, the klutzy, bulbous, bufoonish bus-driving schlemiel in The Honeymooners.

But as Ralph Kramden, Jackie Gleason was in a class by himself.

Which is why I won't be buying the book. Because that's the Jackie Gleason I knew and loved and wish to remember — as Ralph Kramden. I don't really care to meet the other Not So Great One who screamed at his colleagues, tyrannized writers and drank like a thirst-crazed camel.

I know enough of those creeps in real life.

And anyway, I'm getting weary of these "clay foot" books — the ones that take as their theme "So you think Joe Bloggs is heroic eh?"

Well here's the real dirt."

I have no problem with books that tell the truth about people. What bugs me are books that set out to deliberately trash their subject, with no pretense of objectivity or even elementary fairness.

In the last little while we've seen such books disembowel Nancy Reagan, Chuck and Di, Frank Sinatra and a pantheon of lesser luminaries too numerous to mention.

Hospitals should offer equal services to areas

Editor:

I was very pleased to read the letter signed by seven of the past wardens of Haliburton County.

I have known about the "Report of the Task Force on Bed Needs - Acute, Chronic and Extended Care Levels 1985". This excellent report produced by the District Health Council, was the first reference material I studied when I joined the Steering Committee that looked into the Health, Social Service and Housing Needs for Haliburton County. This is the study that recommended 18 chronic care beds for Haliburton County.

We have not been shown that any study was done to justify all of the county chronic care beds at Haliburton Hospital. Indeed, if one checks the demographics of the county, it is difficult to imagine how such a decision could be made.

The 11 townships made up of Dysart et al, Glamorgan and Monmouth total 5,155 permanent residents as listed in the 1988 Municipal Directory. This is 43.2 per cent of Haliburton County's total population. Approximately 20 per cent of this group (1,031) would be 65 years of age or older.

The six townships of Anson et al, Lutterworth, Snowdon and Stanhope total 5,140 permanent residents as listed in the 1988 Municipal Directory. This is 43.1 per cent of Haliburton County's total population. Approximately 20 per cent of this group (1,028) would be 65 years of age or older.

It would seem that if all people in Haliburton County are to have equal access to the chronic care beds, the decision would have been to locate nine beds attached to each hospital in the county.

This brings me to your next point "the age and condition of the Minden Hospital". The Minden Hospital has served the needs of this county as well as the northern townships of Victoria County since 1954 - a total of 38 years and has done a fine job of looking after the needs of the permanent residents and seasonal residents alike. I think it is fair to say that additional room is required for emergency care; for the doctors while making up their reports; and for storage of stores and material. A case could certainly be made for a room for physiotherapy in this hospital, to save our customers the 30 plus miles return drive to Haliburton for this service. Again, the point for equal access to health care service is made.

The staff of the Minden Hospital is second to none in professional ability to look after the needs of their patients. Their caring attitude towards their patients and their work has a rare and precious quality that is highly regarded by all.

I had an unplanned first-hand experience with this hospital a short time ago. The treatment I received from Dr. Conway, and Dr. Asbell, together with the staff in all disciplines, was excellent in all respects.

Last Thursday I had a conversation with the Mechanical Engineer of the Health Ministry, Hospital Planning Branch. I asked him what the ministry had against frame buildings. He answered to the effect that the ministry had nothing against frame buildings, particularly single story structures.

The ministry is apparently looking at returning to this standard as a cost saving measure. We simply can no longer sustain the excesses of the 1960/1990 approach to building health care facilities.

Mr. Frank Lussing, CEO of St. Joseph's Hospital was asked to bring a file copy of the justification study report that assigned all the chronic care beds to Haliburton Hospital. At a meeting at the Hyland Crest home (and here I am quoting from the minutes of that meeting, as I was not present) M. Lussing reported "that there is no known study indicating why the beds were designated to Haliburton Hospital." I am relieved to find that all of you who signed acknowledge that there was indeed a report and I assume that you will send a copy of this report to Ms. Kate Reed, our Study Coordinator so that our committee can study the contents and draw our own conclusions.

Now I would like to address the divisive issue. On July 12, I proposed, seconded by Bob Beene, the following motion - That the Committee agree in principle that the number of Long Term Care beds available to this committee be split evenly between Haliburton Village and Minden. (This was the recommendation made in the Directional Plan). Further, that the available resources would likewise be split pending the finding of the Feasibility Study to be completed on both hospitals and Hyland Crest. If there was overwhelming evidence that proved a more cost effective alternative could be utilized, this could be revisited. This motion was defeated 6 to 5 by the Haliburton group on the basis that they did not have enough information.

The next meeting, July 28, 1992, the following resolution was made by Mr. Michael Collins, seconded by Haddon Gillespie: "That the hold of March 7, 1989, imposed by the Ministry of Health, be lifted. In view of the statement in the letter supplied by the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund which states, 'All funds collected will be used for the Haliburton Hospital project', that 100 per cent of the funds raised under this committee, be allotted for any addition to the Haliburton Hospital and that 50 per cent of the designated provincial funds be earmarked for this purpose.

"Further to this, that the Ministry of Health fast-track the go ahead to build approximately 15 long term care beds onto Haliburton Hospital.

"The final number of beds will be determined by the updating of the existing Haliburton Hospital feasibility study."

The group refused to have Haliburton Hospital subjected to a feasibility study on the basis that it would impose a delay.

On Wednesday August 19, 1992, County Council voted through $260,000 to the Haliburton Hospital Long Term Care beds, without public discussion.

Now I volunteered to work on this committee and look at the good of the county. I think I am doing this, bearing in mind that there is more than one side to the county.

We look forward to receiving a copy of the report that you have all acknowledged.

Cottager lobby group supports fire-fighters

Editor:

We have noted the new stories regarding the suspension of rescue operations by local volunteer fire departments due to inadequate training facilities and equipment.

Coincidentally a fund raising campaign has been initiated and sponsored by Imperial Oil Limited and The Royal Bank of Canada for a proper training centre for volunteer fire fighters.

Through the cooperation of and with the assistance of the Federation of Ontario Cottagers Associations this vital need has been brought to the attention of 1600 executives of The Federation's 480 member associations.

Although this mailing has just gone out we already know of one Haliburton association that promptly and unanimously donated $100.00.

Anyone wishing to donate can mail their cheque to Eastern Ontario Volunteer Fire Fighters Training Centre, P.O. Box 460, Norwood, Ontario K0L 2V0, telephone (705) 639-2121.

It will be one of the best investments you ever made.

Yours very truly,

J.G. Strickland

Keep Minden hospital open say Staunworth residents

Editor:

The following is a letter addressed to Dennis Drainville, MPP Victoria-Haliburton Re: Minden Hospital.

We wish to express our deep concern and alarm over continued reports of the closing of our Minden Hospital.

This concern is not only for ourselves, who are senior citizens of Minden, but for our young people who are often in need of the medical service provided by our hospital and its caring staff.

We need our hospital here in Minden. Please end the arguing and decide where in Minden it should be established.

Sincerely,
Residents of Staunworth Court

Elvis was greasy but didn't deserve Goldman

Back a few years ago I made the mistake of reading the very worst of the genre — a best-selling piece of poison penmanship called Elvis: The Last 24 Hours by Albert Goldman.

I don't know what Elvis ever did to Albert Goldman, but it must have been pretty nasty, because when it came to demolishing the myths surrounding the King of rock and roll, Goldman's book left no sewer tile unturned.

He details every illegal pill and potion Presley popped. Goldman gloated over Presley's abuse of colleagues, his grotesque diet, his weight problem and his often awful stage performances.

Make no mistake about it — Elvis Aaron Presley was several light years shy of St. Francis of Assisi.

We are talking about a semi-literate, red neck Tennessee truck driver who became, virtually overnight, the most famous human being on the planet. A career move like that can do powerful things to your head.

But the Elvis Goldman describes is some kind of subhuman monster, a greasy-haired, foul-mouthed, swollen-bellied mutant who comes on like a cross between Dracula, Don Cherry and Predator III.

Is there nothing good that could be said about Elvis Presley? You won't find it in Albert Goldman's book.

Which is what makes Albert Goldman's book a piece of crap. No one is THAT unrelievedly bad. Goldman's grinding a large and ugly axe. You can hear Goldman's heavy breathing on every page.

Elvis was definitely a bit of a creep. But he sure could rock and roll. I'd rather listen to his music than sniff his dirty linen.

And Jackie Gleason? When I was a kid, Ralph Kramden made me laugh til I cried. I still catch the odd Honeymooners re-run on late-night TV. They still make me laugh, nearly 40 years later.

I'm sure they'll be making people laugh long after The Great One: The Life and Legend of Jackie Gleason is just a dusty leftover in the Coles remainder bin.

Do not pit cottagers against local residents

Editor:

I do hope you find another surprise supporter of market value reassessment for your letters column. But please try to find one that does not rely on that old, discredited concept of dividing our community: cottagers versus locals.

Seasonal residents, many second and third generation, are the same ratepayers who provide the bulk of property tax income to Haliburton County for schools, roads and other services. They deserve to be well represented on the various township councils and these new councillors have added a much needed measure of balance and vision to local government.

I do not believe for a moment that local businesses jack up prices on June one of each year to rip off the cottagers until Thanksgiving weekend; when the owners then close up shop and head for a winter of sunshine and golf in Florida. Nor, I am sure, do the local business owners buy into the silly notion that all cottagers are well-to-do city dwellers: little more than well-heeled intruders into this lovely lake strewn section of Ontario.

Hasn't your correspondent noticed the dramatic decline this year in the usage of cottages and resort communities up here in the north country? Isn't he aware of the enormous number of cottages and homes up for sale on every lake? Surely, he doesn't think that our local business community is somehow insulated from these unfortunate developments.

The seasonal residents of Haliburton are a primary source of income to local businesses and a 30 per cent rise in lake front property taxes would come directly out of discretionary spending of cottagers. It could only result in a disastrous reduction in the amount of money spent for the goods and services provided by local business.

Hardware, hairdressers, grocers and plumbers would all be struck by the cut-back, along with restaurants, golf courses, tree services and laundromats.

Let's face it, market value reassessment is not an idea whose time has come: certainly not in the midst of a brutalizing recession. It threatens to kill the proverbial golden goose.

No wonder Anson, Hindon and Minden has voted unanimously against market value assessment, as has Cardiff Township Council.

By all means let us have fairness in the tax burden, with fairness in the debate and fairness in the timing of radical changes if they must be made.

Canadian flag gets little respect says visitor

Editor:

Having visited Canada and Ontario for the first time, I was astounded at the total kindly and friendly atmosphere everywhere I went, including a visit to the Kinmount Fair with a Canadian friend of mine.

The biggest disappointment to me and somewhat of an embarrassment to my Canadian friend was the total lack of pride for your flag at the fair.

Not only did the exhibitors show this lack of pride but the very people who are involved in the business end and the promotion of an otherwise excellent fair should hang their heads.

Little theatre continues in tradition of excellence on Highlands stages

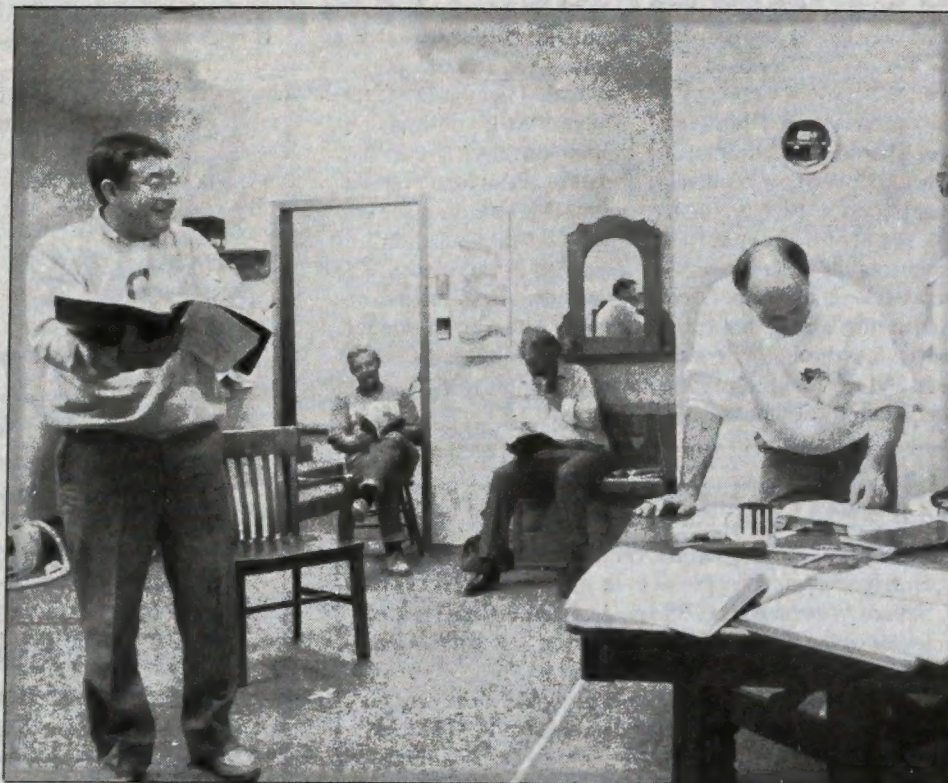

by Irene Libowitz

The Highlands Little Theatre members are busy not only with preparations for hosting the Eastern Ontario Drama League festival on Nov. 6 and 7, but also with their own two entries for the yearly competition, which has been in existence since 1933.

The EODL is relatively new as compared to theatre in the Highlands. According to local historians, live theatre in Haliburton County dates back to the county's early settlement in 1860-1870.

Even before Town Hall was opened in Haliburton in 1871, where the Dramatic Association often performed, C.R. Stewart organized little amateur theatricals at his home. This home he later expanded to become Newnham the first summer resort in Haliburton where the local thespians frequently entertained guests.

Actors, however, are not solely concerned with the world of make-believe and entertaining just for the sake of entertainment. The members of the Dramatic club were then, as now, a public spirited group, and on March 18, 1882, they performed a benefit at the Town Hall for an ailing settler of Dysart, one Joseph Dummett. In recent times, the Highlands Little Theatre group has also contributed to worthy causes such

The Recommended Changes To The Trees Act

The Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) has been asked to amend the current Trees Act to give all municipalities the opportunity to pass local bylaws to protect trees.

The Tree Bylaws Advisory Committee, with members from the Association of Municipalities of Ontario and the province, has recommended changes to the Trees Act.

The ministry will welcome public comments on the recommendations until September 30, 1992.

The Recommendations Propose To:

- allow municipalities to pass bylaws that meet local needs for regulating the removal of trees on private lands
- provide local citizens with the opportunity for input into how the cutting of entire woodlots, important stands of trees, or heritage trees, might affect the community
- give landowners an opportunity for input into the development of local bylaws
- prevent misuse of wooded land by allowing local councils, in certain circumstances, to issue stop-work orders or require that permits be obtained before cutting trees

The Recommendations Do Not Intend To:

- prevent anyone from cutting trees on their own property for their own use, or the properly planned harvesting of trees, in accordance with good forestry practice
- regulate farm crops such as Christmas tree crops, orchard stock and trees for landscaping

The publication Before You Cut That Tree has more information on the recommended changes to the Trees Act. It is available at local MNR offices.

Sentimental melodramas favoured in early Highlands theatre performances as the local hospital expansion fund, the Toronto Sick Children's Hospital and the piano which is housed at the Haliburton Legion hall.

Passage of time brought changes to the architecture of Haliburton. The Town Hall stage was boarded up and Newnham was destroyed by a fire in 1937. The resort was replaced by the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, constructed in 1953. But this by no means ended theatre performances in this spot. The high school drama club and the present Highlands Little Theatre continue to present plays semi-annually on the high school auditorium stage.

The kinds of live theatre offered in the county over the years was the topic of conversation with long time residents Dick and Laura Kirkwood and Nila Reynolds of West Guilford, noted historian and author. Mrs. Reynolds pointed out that not only amateurs performed here. In 1897 poet Pauline Johnson, in traditional (Indian) costume entertained in the Haliburton Town Hall and recited her famous poem The Song My Paddle Sings. In more recent times (1969) the Guild of Fine Arts sponsored The Summer Theatre Festival with Dennis Sweeting's Kawartha Players. Every Monday night the group would travel to Haliburton from Lindsay to tread the boards at the high school.

Mr. Kirkwood recounted, with obvious pleasure in his eyes, the days before television when members of most churches prepared two-hour long plays twice a year, to perform them for an appreciative audience. The upstairs of the Minden Town Hall was the area used by his group and to move the piano up the 22 steps was a labour of love endured for the anticipated pleasure.

The plays were usually sentimental melodramas, recalls Mrs. Kirkwood, but they always had a happy ending. These plays were chosen by the groups from long lists of plays supplied by the publishers. The books would be ordered and on their arrival the hard work of making the story come to life would begin.

Mr. Kirkwood remembers a particularly successful play the United Church members put on in 1926 or 1927. The name of the play is forgotten but the success was so impressive, a group from Haliburton asked that it be performed there. The entire production (less the piano) was taken to Newnham and reproduced with pleasure for the Haliburton audience.

The Highlands Little Theatre still delights in putting on plays. The EODL festival is the next engagement. This time the place will be the Royal Canadian Legion Hall in Haliburton. The group hopes to be able to entertain a large audience, which will become a part of this community's theatrical history.

Waterways Report

Rain of 60 to 80 mm from the remnant system of Hurricane Andrew spread over most of the Trent and Severn Watersheds on Friday, August 28. This boosted levels of the Kawartha and Haliburton Lakes into a surplus condition.

The Haliburton area lakes averaged 72 per cent on August 31, the highest for the date since 1980. The 1991 level was only 53 per cent.

Flows were increased considerably from Haliburton, as well as the Kawarthas, to reduce the surplus. The Otonabee flow was increased to near the maximum for safe boating in the river sections, but with drier weather, a small flow reduction was possible by Monday, August 31.

Flow and level declines are expected next week (beginning Sept. 6) provided drier weather is continuing.

Duck hunters prepare for season opener on Saturday

by Jerry Grozelle

The maple and poplar leaves are starting to turn colour; the early morning air is crisp and cool; and flocks of birds have gathered for the annual migration to their wintering range in warmer climates.

All of these things signal the approach of autumn. But to the hunter it means the start of the duck hunt is a scant few days away.

The Central Region of Ontario, as defined in the Ministry of Natural Resources' 1992 Hunting Regulations Summary, includes the Haliburton Highlands and the northern portion of Victoria County. The waterfowl season in the Central Region usually opens on September 20 but since that date falls on a Sunday, the season will open a day earlier, on Saturday, the 19th.

Bob Gater, a Conservation Officer with the Minden District MNR, predicts an average waterfowl season this year.

"There certainly is a lot of water this year," Gater said. "And that may cause the ducks that are here to be a little more dispersed. There may be the same number or a larger number of ducks but they will be spread out more because there are more ponds."

Gater said that about 95 per cent of the opening day harvest of ducks has traditionally consisted of mallards, blacks and wood ducks.

"Most years the teal have left here by the time the season opens," Gater said.

Conservation Officers and Deputy-COs will be out in full force this weekend checking licences, looking for unplugged shotguns (guns that will hold more than three shells) gathering information on numbers and species of ducks and geese bagged and making sure that bag limits are enforced.

Gater pointed out that of the six ducks a hunter is allowed to take, only one may be a black.

"That is very applicable up here because there are some black ducks," he said.

Not more than one canvasback or two redheads may be taken each day either.

He also stated that once a hunter bags his limit for the day, he is required to cease hunting ducks. There is no party hunting for ducks allowed. In other words, one hunter may not shoot ducks for a hunting partner once he has filled his own limit.

The most common charges that are laid on opening day are for having a loaded firearm in a moving (motorized) boat and shooting before or after legal shooting hours. The legal time is from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. Environment Canada's Peterborough Weather Office pegged the sunrise time for Saturday, September 19 at 6:56 a.m. and the sunset time at 7:16 p.m. That translates to legal shooting hours from 6:26 a.m. to 7:46 p.m. on opening day.

"One of the things we watch closely for is baiting ducks," Gater said. "That's always one of our major concerns."

The regulations state that nobody is allowed to hunt within 400 metres of a baited area and baiting must cease at least two weeks before the opening of the season.

Gater stressed that all efforts must be made to retrieve downed birds since it is illegal to waste the meat of a game bird, animal or fish.

"Hunters have to be equipped to retrieve birds... a boat or a dog or waders," Gater said. "Generally, duck hunters are pretty good at retrieving ducks."

Waterfowl hunters are required to purchase a small game licence from any hunting licence issuer. In addition, they need a Migratory Game Bird Hunting Permit and a Wildlife Habitat Conservation Stamp, which are issued at Canada Post Offices. The total cost of the licence ($6.50), permit ($12) and stamp ($3.50), including GST is $19.80.

Hunters must produce all valid licences and other permits upon request of a Conservation Officer or Deputy.

Ball finals will start this week

by Andy Holloway

The Tri-County play-offs linger on as Bobcaygeon tied its series up with Fenelon Falls after a 1-0 victory last Wednesday.

The Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers will have to wait a little longer to find out who their opponents will be in the finals. The Hustlers knocked off Lindsay two weeks ago with an impressive 3-1 series win.

The best-of-five semi-final series between Fenelon and Bobcaygeon is now deadlocked at two games apiece with the deciding game, weather permitting, was played on Sunday night.

The surprising squad from Bobcaygeon continues to give Fenelon problems despite the large difference in play between the two teams during the regular season. Fenelon only lost once to Bobcaygeon during the regular season and handily won the other five games.

If Fenelon wins, the finals should get under way on Wednesday with Minden travelling to Fenelon. Minden would then play its first home game on Thursday.

If Bobcaygeon wins, the first game would take place in Minden on Thursday unless the two teams can arrange to meet in Minden earlier in the week.

The post season has now lasted almost seven weeks, just four weeks less than the regular season.

A-one try-out by Minden boys

by Andy Holloway

Three local boys - Andrew McKelvey, Danny Jordan and Nicholas Kulas - will be among the first ever to wear the sweaters of the Central Ontario Wolves.

Hundreds of hockey players tried out for the triple A Wolves over the past several weeks as the team held its inaugural training camp.

McKelvey will be playing defence for the minor bantam Wolves while Jordan and Kulas will be forwards at the major atom level.

The Wolves will play in a five-team Eastern Ontario division along with teams from Kingston, Belleville-Quinte, Peterborough and Oshawa. The west division will contain teams from Markham, Pickering-Ajax, Richmond Hill, Vaughan and Whitby. Most of the games will be played on the weekend because of the long distances between centres.

Several of the Wolves teams are based in and around the Lindsay area, but the organization draws from a much larger area including Minden, Beaverton and Bowmanville. The Ontario Minor Hockey Association will only allow teams to play Triple A, the highest level of minor hockey, if they are based in communities of at least 100,000. In order to qualify, the Wolves have had to include over 20 communities in Central Ontario.

Plowing match set to rumble

The International Plowing Match and Farm Machinery Show will be held in Victoria County for the first time in 21 years this week.

The event which has never been held in Haliburton County and probably never will, starts on Tuesday and runs until Saturday on George Graham's farm just outside Lindsay.

The event is the largest machinery show in Ontario and boasts a 100 acre tented city as well as the ploughing site. Inside the tents, there will be machinery demonstrations, cooking shows and an auction among other events. Haliburton

County will be represented by its maple syrup farmers who will be on hand to showcase their wares.

The plowing match features several competitions including a Reeves showdown, to which an invitation was sent to Haliburton reeves including Minden Reeve Bern Berry who declined. However, to increase the political content of the show, four federal minister's will be on hand to tour the grounds on Tuesday at 2 p.m.

The ministers are: Solicitor General Doug Lewis, Minister of State for the Environment Pauline Bowes, Minister of State of Transport Shirley Martin and Minister of State for Small Business and Tourism Tom Hockin. The four are touring the province as part of the Federal Cabinet Minister's Tour of Ontario.

Last year, the event, which is bid upon by the counties, was held in Lambton County. It is scheduled to be held in Bruce County next year and in Renfrew County the following year.

New Wolves on the prowl

of the coaches, assistants and volunteers with the Minden Minor Hockey Association was a major reason why the three boys made the Wolves.

"Residents and elected officials should be very proud and thankful for the work being done in this community by our hard-working and dedicated hockey association," says Kulas. "An investment in our youth is an investment in our future."

While the original scheduling plan for the Wolves was to play a few games in each of the players' home towns, Wolves president Kelly Doyle says that probably will not happen. Instead, Doyle says he hopes the two teams with Minden players will play at least one game in Minden, possibly an exhibition game, during the season.

Kulas and Jordan's team will be based in Newcastle-Orono while McKelvey's team will be based in Oakwood.

New death laws accepted

The following brief items were discussed at the Stanhope council meeting on September 9.

MOE approves stockpiling

The Ministry of the Environment has approved a plan to allow Stanhope to stockpile brush at the Hawk Lake landfill site so it can be chipped.

A previous condition imposed on the site by the ministry when it was expanded earlier this year stated that the township had to cover all the garbage, including brush, once a week. Council then decided it wanted the brush chipped and removed from the site. However, the amount of brush coming into the site was not enough to make the move economical on a weekly basis.

The approval will allow Stanhope to stockpile the brush until enough is collected to make it economical to chip and cart away. In a letter to the township the ministry praises council for its recycling initiative.

Another Staunworth director resigns

Just one month after signing onto the Staunworth Non-profit Housing board of directors, Harry Davis has resigned for personal reasons.

Davis, a former reeve of Stanhope, stated in his resignation letter that he had made the decision to join Staunworth too hastily after being approached by current Reeve Fred Gardner and councillor Jim Hicks.

No one was named to replace Davis who was Stanhope's citizen representative on the board.

Gardner told council that the board is currently reviewing its by-laws, one of which states that one non-council representative must be on the board from each of Minden, Stanhope and Lutterworth townships.

Stanhope has now had four people resign from the board of directors in the past four months.

Death by numbers

Council decided to adopt by-law amendments proposed by its Cemetery Committee. The first amendment makes it possible for four bodies to be buried on the same site provided at least three of those have been cremated. The old by-law allowed only two people to be buried and only one of them had to be cremated.

The second amendment allows each of the four to be represented by a flat stone marker as well as by a common stone monument.

Government reliance fatal mistake, Solutions come from the people tinue," says Norman, backing Manning's statements last week that his party will campaign against the package. The stand is not surprising since the party rejects the idea of "two founding nations" model of Canada.

Devolin says the referendum is a good idea, and one which his party would use more frequently if elected. But, according to the Haliburton resident, the deal is not a good one for Canadians and many agree with Manning that there are problems with compromise reached in Charlottetown.

"I think most people in this country, whether they are in the 'yes camp' or the 'no camp', would argue that it's not a very good deal," says Devolin.

"I think his (Mulroney) calling people who are opposed to the accord 'enemies of Canada' was kind of unfortunate and personally I think it was a little irresponsible on his part."

Paul Pagnuelo says his leader has been labelled as 'anti-Canada', which is unfair.

"All of a sudden you get a politician who has the guts to say there are problems with the agreement, and right away he's going to be branded. Unfortunately that's part of the so-called political game and it sickens me," says Pagnuelo.

Pagnuelo says he has been heavily involved in politics for the past three years, most noticeably as a vice-president and director of the Eastern Region of the Taxpayers Coalition of Ontario. In 1989, Pagnuelo was involved in the fight to save the Peterborough/Toronto Via train service when the federal government announced its plans to close it. He presented an alternative plan, which he said would have worked and saved the taxpayers money, but it was scuttled.

Pagnuelo was also a former vice-president with the Durham Federal Liberal Association before joining the Reform Party last November. The leap from being a Liberal to a Reformer is a large ideological jump, but Pagnuelo says there comes a time when you "wake up politically". That time came last year when the Durham Liberals cleaned house for a single interest group.

"I'd honestly have to admit that if I go back, my parents voted Liberal and it's just something that I was brought up in an environment where you voted Liberal," says Pagnuelo.

"When I look back, I'd have to admit that I was really ignorant of politics until three years ago, when I became involved in the train issue and started looking into the insides of government a little more closely."

Pagnuelo says it would be "presumptuous" for him to say he was better than the other two candidates and admits he is lacking in the education his rivals have. He has two years of college education.

However, Pagnuelo says he has worked his way up through the banking system from a clerk/teller to a senior manager and knows the ins and outs of business. The candidate says this knowledge is important because he believes government should govern less with more initiatives coming from the private sector.

"I think we make the fatal mistake of always looking at our government as supposedly having the answers and the solutions. The approach I take is that the solutions should be coming from the private sector, from the people who vote our politicians into power."

Pagnuelo says Canadians have to become more involved in politics and that good government depends entirely on the people.

"The only way you're going to get good government is to get out and participate," says Pagnuelo.

The three candidates will be holding a forum at the Minden Arena on Thursday and in Haliburton on Friday.

Taking back the night

Third annual march takes place in Haliburton

by Andy Holloway

About 30 women and children will once again be marching through the streets of Haliburton County to protest violence against women.

The third annual Take Back the Night march will happen on Tuesday in Haliburton. Organizers of the event say the purpose of the march is to bring women together to demand safety and security for themselves.

Barb Fraser, who has been involved in all three marches in this county, says the event is more of a symbolic action involving chanting, singing as well as the walk.

"It's pretty low-key. It's perhaps not as radical as it may seem," says Fraser. "It's really a way to empower women. To walk together at night so it's very positive and powerful."

Fraser says the same core group of people show up every year, but that group represents a wide variety of women and children from the different areas of the county.

The march is part of a global movement that started in 1978 as a way of allowing women to assert themselves and their right to walk at any time of day or night unprotected. For that reason, men are not allowed to participate in the walk itself, although Fraser says men will be allowed to show their support at the beginning and the end of the walk.

However, march organizers for the Victoria County march take a tougher position on male involvement. A press release from the Victoria County Committee Against Women Abuse states that men should show their support by providing child care at home or by making a financial donation. The release also asks men not to come to the event.

While many would consider violence against women to be more of an urban problem, Fraser disagrees.

"Violence against women is as prevalent here as it is anywhere else in the province. Being in a small county doesn't protect women."

The rally will begin at 7 p.m. at the Haliburton United Church. The marchers will then walk down Main Street and the downtown area before ending at the church.

English don't believe the hype

Environmental warnings do not phase Londoners

A project in England has provided a respite from phones and faxes back home in Canada.

But even though long hours are spent in studio, I've had plenty of time to scan newspapers and talk with people about the environment.

Curiously, among the BBC television crew with whom I work, there is little concern about environmental matters even though several of them work on programs about nature and science.

When I ask why there's so little worry, I get many answers.

"Greens have lost a lot of credibility," an executive producer said, "because they exaggerate to make a point. They select information to support their point of view."

But business and government do the same things in the name of profit and power. Why should it be a criticism of groups who are trying to bring about change to salvage a planet?

"When I was a kid, there were killer smogs in London," another said. "The fact is, the environment is getting better."

It's true that coal burning, the cause of suffocating fogs, has been largely eliminated. But today, the real threat is the thousands of new chemicals that can't be seen, smelled or tasted but are pervasive in our air, water, soil and food.

"The original forest in this country has been replaced by a man-made landscape," still another person suggested, "and nothing bad has happened - so what's the worry?"

This comment stimulated an interesting response from a production assistant, who pointed out that Britain's countryside and cities have been made over and remade many times. So today, with no experience of the biological variety and abundance of real wilderness, most people have no reference against which to measure change or assess the dangers.

It's an interesting idea, but I think there's more to it.

Everyone I talk to agrees that London has become overcrowded and that traffic congestion, noise, air pollution, waste and garbage have worsened.

But then when I assert this kind of change is endangering the planet, most respond, "I don't believe you."

And that is the problem. Our beliefs are what shape the very way we perceive the world and what we accept as credible or dismiss as unreliable.

But once you understand the interconnectedness of air, water, soil and biodiversity, then you can never again look at environmental problems in isolation from their local and global surroundings.

Over the past month, I've noted stories in the daily newspapers that add up to a strong indication that this country's environment should concern everyone. The reports are the equivalent of the canaries that coalminers once used to warn them of environmental hazards.

Consider a few:

- Britain's natterjack toad has disappeared from 70 to 80 percent of the territory it occupied early in this century.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

Acid rain, habitat destruction and competing species are pushing the amphibian out of existence.

- Ten percent of British butterflies are extinct and many are now declining rapidly. Part of the reason is the disappearance of hedgerows. Since 1985, 20 percent of England's hedgerows were destroyed. Not only are they habitats for butterflies, they offer protection and corridors for movement to other animals and wild plants.

- Marshes are rich habitats for waterfowl and shorebirds but have been relentlessly drained for industry, development and intensive agriculture. That's why England's nature conservancy council is targeting swamps and estuaries for protection.

- The Game Conservancy predicts up to 500,000 of the Britain's estimated one million grouse will be shot by "sportsmen" this year. This despite a 40 percent drop in the bird's population over the past four decades through disease, habitat loss and predation.

tors.

- The Royal Commission on Environmental Pollution reports that the total lengths of rivers that are badly polluted have increased from 3,900 kilometres in 1980 to 4,860 kilometres in 1990, while reported incidents of water pollution in England and Wales rose from 12,600 in 1980 to over 28,000 in 1990.

Read as separate items, each report is a concern only for people with specific interests. But collectively, they add up to a picture of relentless ecological degradation that mimics the pattern of massive destruction occurring in ecologically richer places.

Unless people get the "big picture" of the global ecosphere, they will go on with the comforting illusion that everything's fine while dismissing environmentalists' credibility.

The challenge for environmentalists is how to get that message across. Here in England, it seems, that won't be easy.

Busy September continues summer activities

submitted by Comrade Shirley Kirk

After a busy summer, we started our September meeting with a pot luck supper and good comradeship.

Thank you to all Auxiliary and Branch members who cooked and served lunch, at the Legion, all summer. Your help is very much appreciated.

During our September 9 meeting, the Pay-What-You-Pull draws were made. The winners are: Garnet Coulter of British Columbia - $25, Corinne Arsenault, Camarvon - $25, Brenda Henderson, Minden - $25, Don Burch, Minden - $25, Ralph Tarswell, Minden - $50, Clinton Saft, Newmarket - $50 and Fred Baker, Port Perry - $100.

Congratulations and thank you for supporting the Ladies Auxiliary. As we are hosting the 1993 Ladies Auxiliary Convention, all proceeds from our draw will go into a fund to help make our Convention a success.

Our meeting night draw winners were Comrade Georgina

Legion news

Parks and Comrade Verna MacDonald, each received a small gift.

Just a reminder that your 1993 Dues can be paid from now until December.

During the summer, our Auxiliary Comrades were busy, cooking and serving lunches at our Legion bake sales, perennial sale, ticket selling and a Monte Carlo day. During the Monte Carlo, we held the draw for a crib quilt and pillow made and donated by Comrade Edna Trumbull. The winner was Comrade Marie Dennie. A ham, donated by Comrade Dorothy Ash, was won by Comrade Mary Colman.

September 27 - 30, five of our Auxiliary Comrades will be attending the Ladies Auxiliary Convention in Hamilton. Thank you to Branch 636 for helping with the expenses.

Our next meeting will be October 14 at 7:30.

Seniors ride the county roads

Saturday, August 29, I had the pleasure of accompanying my son and his wife, Terry and Norma, to Peterborough to attend Norma's mother's 85th birthday party at the home of Brian and Sandra Bowes. I stayed overnight at May and Roy Camerons and Terry brought me home Sunday night.

Saturday afternoon Marjorie Rennick came for a lovely sing-song that we appreciate immensely. Sunday night, chapel service was taken by Rev. John Burgess with Alice Jones at the organ. Thank you both very much.

Monday, Gregg Sawyer set up the shuffleboard to have a few games. It was a pleasant change from our usual routine. In the evening, Tom McAllister showed the films Grandma's Glass Village and A Walk in the Forest. Thanks Tom, they were very good.

Rev. B. Parker conducted Tuesday chapel service and we thank him from our hearts. In the afternoon two young ladies came to crafts and demonstrated the art of dying scarves. They were Brandon Jarvis and Valerie Patterson. We each made a scarf with the help of Mary Guillemain and Dottie Muirhead. That morning Gertie McKay made pinwheel muffins and we certainly enjoyed them. Thank you Gertie and all who helped.

September 2, Doris took us for a bus ride. We travelled on South Lake Road to Birch Tree Corners, then via County Road 1 to Donald, back to Lochlin, over to Ingoldsby and Hwy. 121 to Kawartha Dairy for our usual treat. It was so good having Dick and Sylvia Thompson as volunteers on our tour. This was the first time this summer. It was also nice to have Dottie Muirhead and Doris. Thank you all for a lovely drive.

Pastor Murray held a great service in the evening in the Trillium Lounge. It was greatly appreciated by the residents.

September 3, the ladies from Kinmount United Church brought the Thursday tea. The delicious tea was served by Jane Dettman, Laurie Dettman, Ruby Henderson, Joyce Strang and Ruth Schultz. Everyone thanks these ladies sincerely for giving us a happy afternoon. That evening Amy Parker came and called bingo. We are very sorry to say this was her final time to call for this summer as she returns to school. She was assisted by Brandon Jarvis and Valerie Patterson who will be coming back each Thursday for bingo. Amy made a pretty willow wreath herself and gave one to each regular resident who plays bingo. Thanks Amy, Brandon and Valerie.

Darlene and Frank Compton were our entertainers at Happy Hour on Friday. They certainly provide very stirring music and we are very happy to have them. Thank you Darlene and Frank. The hostesses were Ellen Holden, Mary Guillemain and Dottie Muirhead, with barman Don Holden. Thank you all very much.

We are sincerely happy to congratulate the Rev. John and Mary Burgess on the celebration of their 46th wedding anniversary at Hyland Crest, Saturday, September 5.

That special day is gone again, when pupils started school, last Tuesday with a few sad mothers waving goodbye to their little one for the first time.

School buses are numerous and drivers must stop for flashing lights whether meeting or wishing to pass these. Please take care of our little people who might rush out across the road without thinking.

Sincere sympathy to the families and friends of the late Vera Ward, Wilma Barry, Myrtle Giles and Wanetta Hogg who passed away since last week. Also my eldest daughter, Carolyn, lost her mother in law, Marie Leaman.

Some people who are in the hospital are Jean Cowen, Shirley Hewitt, Lila Warburton and Jean Lacey with good wishes to them and others as well.

Sunday guests with Florence Robinson were Doris Negus and Harold Godfrey from Lindsay.

Visiting with the Bob Vicks last weekend were their whole family and also Mary, Terry and Brittany Ralph of Peterborough.

Our village was surely sorry when we learned of the death of Vera Ward. For myself she had been a long-time friend as we had worked and enjoyed events together.

Ward's garage and Vera's snack bar were well known to most of our older crowd. We'll certainly miss you, Vera!

CARDS OF THANKS

S.I.R.C.H. would like to thank the PineStone Inn and Country Club and the Domain of Killien and Intra Town & Country Travel for their generous support in our raffle. Prizes were drawn September 8, 1992 winners are: 1. Laura Fitzell; 2. Fred Salisbury; 3. Donna Pacey; 4. Wallace Wood. Proceeds go to Telecare, Haliburton County (a 24 hr. distress line) and to Parent Support Services to respite care. 9B

Heartfelt thanks goes out to those brave souls who joined me in recreating our historic trip to Haliburton. Rain did not deter them. We continued on in the true pioneer spirit. Special thanks also is due to Susan (continued)

CARDS OF THANKS

Wilson for an excellent newspaper article; Murray Robertson for driving the boat and providing a colourful commentary; Bob Austin of Austin Realty for the use of his pontoon boat; Harvey McIntosh for horse and wagon portion of the trip. Without all these people, my "idea" would have been shelved. Thanks, Carol Miles. 9B

CARDS OF THANKS

A sincere thank you to Jerry Villeneuve for coming to my rescue on August 20 when a chimney fire in my home set me in a state of panic. Thank you to Danny Dunbar of the Kinmount Fire Department for calming me down and for his quick response. Finally, thank you to Leon Hartin, Bryan Crouter and Kevin Freeman for a job well done. God bless you all. Jean Griffith, Kinmount.
